

The Reptilion Files: Book One

Reptillion – R-Dog - King of Mars (1939--?-1994)

1941. 'The Map'. An Enochian Tablet (stone/metal/mineral amalgam) that, when properly charged (aka with conscious intent and/or a good substitute) (aka mostly meaning to put in the proper microwave (or whatever) <<The one they found with The Map or one like it>> gave off resonance of a type of energetic flux into the 5th+ dimension that would allow astral and physical travel to different locations (in the stars, under them, etc.) based off of the use of codes & energies held within other sacred artifacts, known to the United States Government (prior to 1994) <Hillary Clinton was involved and as far as I'm concerned Chelsea Clinton is* Missing, JUST like NANCY REAGAN> as Henochs, that were crafted in order to allow for travel to and from a certain predestined area or set of areas <Basically anywhere, although some places were not like on the Map, The Map was not complete, is not, etc.- God's Creation is Complex and no Map could explain it whether Hitler was a Jew or just dated one for a little while.) based off the type of Henoch.

Quoteable Martian Quotations: -Seer FaahhhckJou

Martians Cook Cold on Long September Nights Using Cold Tools. We always try to Cold Cook here. The reason is because it's super hot during the day and we are worried our crops won't grow or it will freeze and there will be no peaches or tea next Christmas).

Mars 1993 A.D. (Anno Domini; Year of Our Lord; Jesus Motherfucking Christ): "A Blessing Begets Three Curses. A Curse Begets Three Blessings. Always Be Blessing. This is How We Grow To Be Better." –Martian Ancient Wisdom turned 1992 T-Shirt Slogan <🖥️🕒>

Aether, The Flow, The Needle, and Our Future: -Abraham FuckyourCouch

Aetheric Chamber Notes, Destinee OkeeDoke 🙃 1914 A.D. – Aether is required for most of the powers to travel time & trade in space. (Homo Sapiens, the hairless Neanderthals that thought they could throw spears better or whatever; can be melted down into raw Aether with a count like Minecraft MC. (As can ants and God and Books you like ☿) The United States and many other Countries have and are been and being syphoning Aether (to help shore up where the IRS may be missing back taxes, people working under tables instead of breaking them over peoples' backs, etc.) using monuments, landmarks, and other natural "hotspots" to "cover and cap" then "drill and distill" then "poke and shmoke" the Aether deep from the Earth, another form of blood, as water or oil or hatred, culling the mystical substance as it flows to keep Homo Sapiens alive (or perpetuate a "shadow democracy" which will slowly but surely use Adam Smith's "Invisible Hand" to bitch slap us all back into the stick and stone age, whatever.) and their rainbow dreams of ever smoking a reefer on Mukunda Mountain with a real Rainbow OG. Amen. Rainbow Icing of Frost. Sphew.

Summary of Nazis in Cave Complexes beneath Himalayas; The Battles, The Treasure, & The New Opportunity

We, the Nazis, were fortunate enough to win the Map and three "Henochns" (which we called Heineken Bottle Caps, etc... in your native language, you fucking rich ignorant fucks- free water? See hotel Rawanda and Miss Bella Rhonda – exercise 3: Red Leather you fucking bitches). <<Editors Note: The Second World War had far reaching traumatic effects that were not limited to the shock from the sound of bombs which some writers believe is what was meant by shell shock. We must be humble in the face of difficulties we do not understand because we have not experienced them>> (Two of them were "local" Henochns (who cares more? Uncle Sam, Big Brother, or Big Sister China? Only one of these mothafuckas gives you their actual god damn name and you better know who to trust you ignorant rich fucktards, Amen.), 1 distant (aka like where the elves live and shit and we take dune like machines there to eat the elven forests and their sticks and take their stones and make pencils and more Ballistae for the reaping) (One of the Henochns primarily for physical travel, one for astral travel, one for both modes of travel – and if you are having trouble following this I will give you one chance to get on your mother fucking knees and ask the God Lord Highest Almighty and

All of His Children for Forgiveness before you read on...) inside a fortified ancient tomb and complex deep within caves underneath the Himalayan Mountains (aka "The Color Pink" (See Bolivia, 9mm, parachute, man's color). We were fighting an army of necromantically driven skeletons, fowl and foul zombies, angry and super Demons, Daemons, and upset stomach random shit eating (Including Homo Sapiens or whatever the leash people consider their god damn self) dogs at each breach. They found a total of 4 paths, and had to fight some of the most intense and costly battles of the entire war in those caves without a soul knowing up above. Made the Moon Landing look like a Bruce Almighty Remake where a black guy was God or whatever. Some demonic souls lingered and began to travel in the army past the death of those they were inhabiting during the fights underground. They would persist in the hearts, the minds, and even the pockets of the never-fatigued, well-hydrated German Forces during the course of the Second World War. The fights were savage; Homo Sapiens was inexplicably and forever changed by (not rainbow shit in case you are in class reading this wondering what the fucking white dog was it was a god damned white dog enjoy your grades and stuff.) what the Nazis came up against seeming superhuman strength on behalf of the defenders of the cave complex. These were massive, with ceilings in some places a mile+ high. Some of the female soldiers were taken to the top of these forlorn caves and fucked upside down and then dropped with the Zygote fertilized and were laughed at and told on the way down that they were joining the Mile High Club. Maybe we were just upset we were losing. It's hard to tell. Super Lame. Anyways, the devil dogs were a locus of different elemental colors; some fire, some frost; some acid, some lightning (and those were THE ONLY GOD DAMNED ELEMENTS ALLOWED EVER THOSE FOUR THE OTHER STUFF WAS PHYSICAL OR NETHER OR WHATEVER BE GOD DAMNED SURE OF IT). We had to mine for copper and tin ore on site in order to keep the dwarven runes we found happy- we had plenty of blood but very little bronze, which we needed to power our little version of A Star Army. And don't forget the yellow ones. Amber was the color of their curse. At first they thought there was no way to murk the yellow ones. I found a way. Human piss. That's why the Alien Overlords outlaw the color of yellow in telepathic transmission. Too much piss all over the place. Everyone has opinions; mine are just coloured by my experience.

The “Henochs” accrued in total were: 1 for physical travel to Mars (along with information, schematics and vectors for space travel written in Hebrew), 1 for astral travel to Venus (where we would learn about the Galacticorp, Galacticom (think “The Internet “with better Warcraft 2 Maps”, etc.), the Galactic Federation (Bunch of Bitches; remember everyone was eating pills and shit in that I LOVE DOGS FUCK THE GALACTIC FEDERATION REBELLION ANARCHY FOREVER REMEMBER THE N I G G E R S THAT DIED SO YOU COULD LAUGH ABOUT IT FUCK THEM, FUCK THEM, F. U. C. K.)), the Venusian Gas Industry, and the Imperium of Man (already firmly allied with the United States (Because they have the Bombs and the Many of the Most* Prominent Assholes known to man on their land; Don’t Mess with Texas;)), although this tie we assumed weak because we knew the United States’ plans, and we knew the Imperium of Man would never support such an outlandish and heartless fabrication. And, if they did, we knew the dinosaurs would come back and turn Grand Forest Apartments and the rest of the whole motherfucking United States into a God Damned Endless Ghetto. Etc. The Henoch we found for both long distance physical and astral travel ended up cashing out through the exit of a Wyrmhole. (There is no such thing as the best online sandbox game. There used to be; it was called Second Life). leading to a closely neighboring Galaxy, containing some material planets, a few of which were inhabited, and access to the wider Universe. The Nazis could now travel to an old homestead, a place always behind them, yet always in their heart (how are you DOGE folks going to quit your job when we all get free coats and the rain turns to pure piss and burns them or whatever doing at your electrician jobs? I appreciate the workers. I’m just tired of us not rebelling and stuff. I’m so pissed about working I can’t even work anymore. ☹). Mars (before the last batch of us sentient, technologically advanced hominids* like ME! And my old friends from yesteryear) destroyed it by eating all of the motherfucking god damned pixie sticks and cotton candy, turning it pink some 275,000 years ago and then red about 47,000 years ago – Just made that shit up! Believe it? Read on.) Because of this newfound travel ability, most of the schematics and technology required to travel was cheap and shitty.

(I am a fan of Taylor Swift's early music, but really only one or two songs. Nothing else. <<Editor's Note: This Stays Right Here>>). About half a million Nazi Soldiers, African Mercenaries and polymorph clones (Africa may have put the bones in the hotels and stuff just to scare white people on TV and convince kids to go to school like those commercials about adopting an animal) <<being made in the image of Europe, we should expect to be overrun with uncomfortable, unnatural, unexplainable things here in the U S of A.>> perished in those hallowed halls. We knew the treasure would be valuable, or whatever was being guarded down there; we didn't expect to come across R's hidden goodies. Like an Easter Basket, left unguarded; a Halloween Decanter full of treats and candies, with a hand-scrawled note, indicating to take just One- where all you wanted was one yellow egg; and your best friends from childhood made mistakes, but you took all their best things, and left them to fend for themselves; then later they would appear to you, and they would give you advice and treats and show your yourself in yourself as yourself. Amen.

We could now also explore the Venusian Gas Realms (VGR), Kind of like Virtual Reality but more like pumping 1-2 USD of gas into a water bottle and just drinking and snorting and putting in your eyes the whole thing) <<editor's note: We are not certain that gasoline in the eyes is a good thing; please do not take this as license to do anything like put gasoline in your eyes. One editor guarantees drinking, snorting or sniffing most consumer-grade, pump-available gasoline can be good in moderation, but this isn't a fucking cookbook and there are no turnips left, mothafucka.). gain a better understanding of Vivacion and its Aqua Di No God allies along with the true extreme value, power, and intrinsic need of other species for human (and others) suffering and the products' consequent commodification and commercialization.

It is said Hitler himself regularly took point through one of the cave complexes, so excited and ready, having received his clues and 2 Imprisoned Veil-Martians (villa the veil bitch, get wrecked and get fucked and get ready for mo') to fight with the crew after finding the first Henoah and Map from -R (who they would later discover was Reptilion, the King of Mars at the time- Remember the Book of Truth, and the One Law- there is no Law, Only One.) The two martians, obviously surviving due to their incredibly advanced martial and physical prowess (magnified by Earth), amazed the soldiers they fought with. The alacrity and pure physical horror of the Blitzkrieg can only partly be attributed to amphetamines. It was Martian terror that truly allowed for the Nazis to cut through any surrounding countries like hot butter. Well, it was both. Ever seen a Martian on Amphetamines? Me Either. Doo Doo Doo, Doo Doo Doo. They say my book doesn't make sense, I say they are dense, All I want is two poles a burner and a bunch of fabric tents)... It was the withdrawal of support ~~nobody fucking knows~~ that turned the tides.

The Map Came with a few other objects. One was a Tarnished Terra-Cotta with Flexible Startanium-Alloy FlatBlack-Coloured Gauntlet, A Shiny Black Oster Microwave Oven from the year 1984, complete with 1984 atomizer, plug, battery, and small hand-crank generator, a set of what appear to be extremely ancient but well-intact and never before seen surgeon and surgeon (healer) tools, and a note written in black ink on a piece of pristine, golden vellum parchment: "Blessed Be. -R"

Vivacion and Re-Manufacturing All of The Buffalo:

Think about human beings. We eat dead things. Our actions routinely destroy and impinge upon the best interest of nature, each other, and life everywhere we go. Infringing, always testing and pushing limits at this. We have dead stuff growing out of our head (hair), hands and feet (nails), etc., and even have a whole necromantic art-form just for how to spice and season what we've often taken that could have gone to the soil, to the other animals benefit, to all life in our area, really. ("For if the salt hath lost its savour, wherefore shall it be salted"? In The Demented Cotton Candy World of Pashuaz, welcome to it, btw, you better read all of this at least twice before you buy another stick of butter, you racist ass nine eleven fearing no heaven thinking about our younger years you and me, cracker) - "Salt my cracker" (Jesus, Chiding while being whipped on Mars – taunting The Tormenters.)) We humans bend nature itself with great pain and creatures to immense suffering, as well as our fellows and any sentient being we meet to our own will, automatically considering ourselves supreme, acting in pure ignorance or complete malice and really not minding either way; until we learn more.

We are not a clean, nice species of creature, from the outside looking in. We equally possess great inner darkness, horrific hangups, and suffer much. This suffering, especially when experienced directly within and through such a dark creation of the Heart of a Loving God <<Tao, Allah, Buddha, Melanie, Jehova, Ganesha, etc. The great thing about the name of the Ultimate Reality (1) is that it exists whether you like it or not, and you get to argue and fight about the name of It, forever! Whether you like it or not. Welcome to the Company Sto'.>>, is like pure silver and gold to the mills of Vivacion. Homo Sapiens are kind of like a chia pet and all they want to harvest is that feeling when the grasses dry up and your Chia pet fucking dies no matter how hard you tried to take care of it and bottle it like Aqua Digio and sell it to little amateur rich pieces of shit that don't understand cologne but trust websites made by what pretend to be black people, in your "shitty little world expendable as a dollar in a crack den" - (What if there was another world where Homo Sapiens thought they originated, and they had a similar book, but it was entitled "The Bible Holy" and God created the heavens and the earth and the first Homo Sapiens he created was Steven and Victoria, and Victoria was made first, and was perfect, and Jesus was the fallen angel, and Lucifer was the Son of God, crucified on a Fish and Loaf of Bread with Wine thrown all over it? Food for thought.)

Any experience of life, but especially (from a galactic value standpoint) when we stress, when we want, and when we need, especially, when we ask – some definite chemicals are produced. Sentient-consciousness, as an individual, partial collective, or whole, creates an actual life-giving substance to some other sentient entities that require that type of shitty energy to feed them like shit eating creatures that grow in your poop to experience certain material realities and senses that are beyond their limited abilities to reproduce or devise technologically. So they take advantage of you and your needs and your wants and your asks for what can be reduced to the binary "1 and 0" of your very important, usually ten-fingered existence: Exogen and Exeter. It is like bringing a creature that is dead in some way to life. Like taking a kidney from a brother or sister who loves you dearly and using it to stay alive so you can do drugs and eat steak; And God makes things of all natures and kinds – there are things that will do anything to come "alive" in certain ways, like for a very specific example I would* suck a man's dick if I could actually figure out how to get a real twenty rock out of it, or was convinced it would be a good idea or whatever, etc.) And this includes to manipulate and to war. And to spy, etc. - In the process of manufacturing what is raw substance, the pheromones are released, other brain chemicals, gland and organ excretions – along with a variety of other ephemeral substances garnered that are definitely used in the research and development of yet more products for other species, places, and times- whether they be helpful or harmful, there's always a demand. Humans became a primary supplier around the time of the Second World War, bursting onto the scene of the Wider Universe like a fountain of sparks from a firework. –Deckard C. (“Stay a while, and bring me a fuck-crack rainbow rock if you want me to identify any more god damned items.”).

The deeper down the rabbit hole one may venture, you would be surprised. They would see that the whites, when taking over North America, really did adopt the “Every Part of the Buffalo” mentality. The “waste” in our society (throwing out of foods, useable goods, quality materials, wasted space, decimated natural areas that produce great effects and raise life quality for people, etc.) is only surface-deep. Every piece of trash. Every urination in the bowl. Every chemical released into the air. All are used. All are important. All are priceless. By now, almost 100% of it is harvested, re-used, and often sold right back to us after making its way through the human body, and then through the pipes. This is not just Native American wisdom; these systems of runoff and accrual were perfected due to the link established with Vivacion. One can see it in this day and age (2025) as the “body to toilet to pipe to sanitation facility to scraper to can at the grocery store Effect (aka the harvesting of Vitamin B12 from its source). Vitamin B12 isn't the only quality good coming from the sanitation department. Our children need school supplies; and there are not enough papers. Call the Sewage Department. –Rep. Local Socialist Party (The “RedBull” Communists)

Vivacion produces and sells (and forces others to become dependent on, addicted to, etc.) refined products made from the excretions of creatures. Period. Sentient, not Sentient, vertebrate, invertebrate, micro-organism, whatever. If it is alive, the Vivacion Vets (and Vixens) are using it to make something else. If it is dead, they are using it to refine from raw material to useable good and make the highest vertical profit possible in order to provide for an exogenic deficit that does not allow them to feel okay unless they spray themselves with chemicals. Vivacion Vixens began showing up around the 1920's, once Earth's post-industrial-revolution Humans were identified as an extremely stressed and sick sentient species of ape. Thus, the flappers became manifest. Essentially, we were a prime target for producing the exact kind of substances that Vivacion required for their mills. Gin, etc. The more social interest in love during times of difficulty, the more the valuable of components. Heightening and controlling the mind, harvesting them with the "MindNet". When stress, fear, and other body, mind, heart, soul and spirit sicknesses befall a creature or a group, the more valuable and potent the raw commodities become towards the creation of the refined substances, which are then mirrored back and taxed upon the entire population as fashion and beauty statements in popular media and unreachable heights of attractiveness due to the use of these chemicals. Sexual revolution, times of upheaval- Vivacion knows how it goes. With every turn of the business cycle, they play Earth around the wheel. Until the finding of the bone. And everything after. The primary powerhouse was now accessible to high-ranking members of all Major Powers on Earth, with Hitler holding the keys to the Proxy Gate and Mars.

The Blessings for God's Original People; The Blessing of the Wanderer; The Gifts from the Creatures of the Light

There are old stories of when the Jews were wandering, anywhere, thousands of years ago, sometimes wild, vision-type experiences would occur. However, these occurred in waking life, and it was always just and only the Jewish people and almost always when walking alone in the wilderness that they saw these kinds of miracles come to pass. Gentiles would not be near, frightened away similar to muggles straying too close to a wizard sporting event. A gigantic snake, a dolphin, a turtle or any animal would suddenly appear – many kinds of bright lights, patterns, and colors represented in each; the color was always so strong it was the individuals' who experienced these blessing constant refrain when attempting to describe these experiences- the color, the color. For example, and excerpt;

- The Red Viper sprung to life before me on the path to Golan. It appeared along an oasis right in the middle of a semi-dense jungle in the middle of the night. Our torches added to the glow of the bright red foiled by bright yellow bejeweled snake with black eyes comes at us, hisses something, and falls apart in cubes of rare, obviously super-valuable glowing ores. -

These blessed creations would then proceed to spew different types of treasures at the feet of the wanderer. Boots made of Pure Dragonhide; Swords made of Asteroid-Gilded Ademantine; Golden and Bejeweled Coins, Special Plants, Technologies and Products from Civilizations and Places Unknown; these gifts were known to often stimulate and proliferate industry and technological growth and whole cities that would often appear near where the original find was, as there was often a radius where other treasures would appear, on or below the ground, and a single find would make one so wealthy as that regional geopolitics would shift.

*Editors Note: To those with Subconscious or Conscious Impressions from Inaccurate & Misleading History, Propoganda, News & Culture on R's First Pick, Hitler:

Yes, Hitler hated the Jews for the most part, and yes, he ended up making horrible decisions. R was a Jew, in his own way. He himself performed and he did sign off on some of the most awful atrocities imaginable to a primitive people, permitting even worse things than most know to the Jews, the Mentally Ill, and the same treatment bestowed upon most of his enemies, political or otherwise; but did not even God, by creating such a wonderful world, and putting all of us, so different, so violent, so strange, in it together? Even with the lenses having been shattered, we persevered. But, the unspeakable crimes, (Almost Every One*), would better be finger-pointed by and blamed first on that Cadre of Evil, the Powers of the Air, that fund what we consider the top of society (the controllers of those who are considered by the 'wider informed populace' as the wealthiest one percent of the World.) – the controllers of the wealthiest, most powerful humans we are made aware of – those who deny you your own personal raincoat and rainboot and easy bake oven making factories that fit in a shoebox and make you rich forever, for ever ever, that salivate when considering the gains from a global war, laughing maniacally when thinking of the despair, suffering and mayhem these wars cause; utilizing all of the new technology being discovered (Didn't realize it was possible for anyone to be materially wealthier than the World's wealthiest 1%? Stick around. You will discover much more of true wealth and true value; dollars are a weak form of wealth and the indication therein is predicated as dependent upon you, the People; who are also kindly referred to as "The Beast of Burden" in high circles, those Eritran evils who prodded the whole World into War in the first place, originating from abroad, from local, from the stars, from that Beyond what we call Life itself, having no bodies to kill, no design to undo- a hard enemy to fight; emerging thus this evil in order to seek and to persecute the talents and beauty and resources and potential of the rest of All of Life and Beyond, herein termed the Eritran (the Powers of the Air) that they may control all and do what they will with an entire free-will sentient-vertebrate race (humanity).). This is why we desperately require an Imagination Library. We are only told that we need more pylons; maybe we just need less bitchy Protoss. Remember Dolly. Remember Fancy. Remember The Wood.

Of those extreme 'Above & Beyond Elites' – none whose name or face or likeness or whereabouts or doings are we EVER made aware, there are many classes and levels of hierarchy. However, the Champions of the Nobility are our closest gander and guess at their ways and manners for the most part (See Machiavelli for an explanation of Peoples Champion vs Noble Champion). No, only their common-court problems of nepotistic, necrotic, highly controlled oligarchical puppets saying this and demanding that in order to rise in the ranks just a little bit on this Rock we call Earth; do we see them even in world news, government, business filings or other public / private media rivaling our real champions in this logical fallacy of a Republic; taxes now come from price increases and power loss systematically bestowed by corporations that are backed by organizations like certain branches and groups within our government and above even them into the layer-orders of the New World Order, etc, although I would like to say I support Elon Musk for King of Mars today. No one you've laid eyes on is actually your true enemy in this frozen, shadow war of Life and its Enemies. Your captors, those slavemasters old and new- the ones who commit these atrocities to you, to the ledgers and ballots and papers and all the people we know and care about and the creatures and the Earth herself, who change history before your face and then laugh at you are they- but, please remember, everyone makes mistakes. All have sinned and fall short of the Glory of God. Everything finds growth and truth and learning first through error. So, we should assume that error is the first and last rule in the case of any mortal or even material creation outside the substrate of the God that is in everything, keeping everything, and binding everything perfectly in the evidence that there is existing the number 1 (1 = I am that I am) or the Principle of One, the Law of One, One Love, Etc. Meaning, that there is always hope. So these are the equations. God = Everything | Thought = Prayer | More on the commodification of hope as an actual substance, its value, Vivacion and Hoperion later.

Remembering Everything, and the Problem With That. Albert Fiendstein, Mars University Earth Exchange Admissions Statement & Paragraph | Mars Seed 831a2c

Admissions Statement: Let me in. I'm tired of Earth, guys. There's no real drugs here and I want to do math and science around y'all's level.

Paragraph: Could we actually remember our ancestor's memories without the tabula rasa of birth and youth in this New World on Earth these days, (100% Recollection of our Ancestor's Memories (let alone our own) are just one of the many powers and abilities humans are naturally equipped with which we are now denied.) imagine what one could do with their own potential, ever-exceeding and ever-growing the human corpus to the stars and beyond, the memories seeded in their blood of the miracles and the woes and the triumphs and (to these folk who sought it especially) the wealth and the power that flowed in 'The Map' that was their DNA from Edengrad? (Alien Scientific, Cloning and Primary Gold Mining Facility aka the Garden of Eden 500,000 years ago)? Let alone, in the same swoop, eradicating massive portions of the bloodlines, undermining any ability to retaliate by seizing all property, whether real or intellectual, and permanently ensconcing once more in our collective racial consciousness the pain of resisting those powers that know no bounds of corruption, hate, or guile to render their way as the only way, their intention as supreme, and their will as our own will, regardless of previous outcomes or settlement or history or claim. Prolonged contact with the Eritran has proven to have a 'Hitlerian' effect on human consciousness, warping it into a violent, aggravated sickness that knows no bounds when mixed with large amounts of homininaeron and put immediately back into Earth-type material exposure.

Hitler was dual-natured in his relationship with the Powers that Enslave - The Eritran; for he was both pawn and scapegoat for those Eritran powers whose corruption, if you really knew even the barest extent of it, would most likely lead to a state wherein without special training (requiring years or strong drugs or both, you would become unable to sleep until you died. It has happened to many who were exposed after living any amount of time on the Real Plane, a funny misnomer these families would laugh about over twenty-million-dollar a plate dinners with Teeth as Knives. Hitler mostly wanted them (the Jews) out of the way toward building something greater (his, Germany's, and society's) before and during the beginning of his rise to political power because he knew frankly and spoke often of the plenties wealth in the world that should be for all, massively increased power for all mankind to share and secrets that the public should know; but this view fell short of the stark reality.

Once we discovered the value of the 'Original Souls', 'God's Chosen People', 'The Jews'; and we already knew the value, both to a race-consciousness and on a galactic economy scale, of raw suffering – well, the combination is why they said the treatments had to be so cruel. ...Little did we know (We believe Hitler knew) – there were way better ways. We would have gotten more if we had used the carrot, and not the stick. However, the 'Hive Mind' type consciousness that blossoms as a result of any relationship between anything in Nature, was so greatly feared by the Dark Powers, and Hitler, with increment and then great swiftness, the eventual alignment of the instructions of his Controllers and the desires of his heart swung to hide the information, more easily subdue and control the populace; the Truth would make a Germany and a Reich that, whether bringing pure panick or prosperity, could not be controlled. This much was evident. So, it was out of the question to let the public ever know that there are societies within societies on Earth, Planes within Planes. The scale of the projects and the doings and the creations of mankind; if only you knew. The legacy and depth and power of mankind; etc., etc., et. al. Imagine if there were 7 layers, and you only experienced one. Also, look to the stars if you want to know your origins. We are clearly not from here. Well, there's life out there alright, and not nearly as far as you think.

"You're sub-dunked, son, you just at the bottom of the barrel, brains a fryin on a cold-skillet and you aint know there's a few layer of fish above you and maybe even below you, you know? "

Goblins and the Goblinary; More About the Eye That Broke the Peace:

Goblins are extraordinary entities; groups of Original People from days of yore would often be trapped in Vast Wildernesses or Held Captive for long stretches. (Ten thousand years? Try ten million years isolation and crossbreeding for some gene pools of the oldest known of Goblinkind, slaved to different foundries. Everything from Arcane Research to Stone Mining, a goblin would do. They were specialized after a short time and gene-bred as the perfect worker. Only a few conditions had to be met, and they stayed relatively docile.); without fail, they would, if enough time (One hundred thousand human years is the minimal amount of time it takes to officially claim that a group are truly 'Goblinated' or actual Goblins). Mars was completely peaceful about eight thousand years ago. Then, a little girl, running behind the commercial stores in Stogedly Park Region, came across the grotesque, unknown horror. An Eyeball was found, ripped out of a Martian's eyesocket, covered in blood and gore.

She recounts finding the eye in a well-known history:

"When I saw it, I just screamed. I came to a dead halt, and screamed. I just kept screaming. Eventually, one heard, then two – then people came running from all directions. Many people were screaming. Everyone was running around, like a bunch of mad chickens that had been given some of those drugs the Nanny Grams says the young people are taking that make them confused about where they are; but they were all looking at each other, like, like they were hungry. We. I was probably looking hungry too, because I was feeling hungry.

Some ran for food. Some ran for drink. Some were screaming. Some just kept circling. I felt a hand enclose mine. I stopped screaming. I looked up. I recognized that man from the post office looking down at me, concerned. He said, close your eyes, follow me, run. And we ran. Come to find out later, a few minutes after we left? Three people were killed as a group of ten ate them. I mean devoured them. Picked off every piece of flesh. Eventually restrained and placed under observation. Mars had changed for good on this dark night, we knew. We ended up at his cousin's house and hid in a cellar. Fuck that, man. This was bad news bears of the highest extent.

I'd be trapped in arrested development for the rest of a five hundred year lifespan if I couldn't find a way to heal my wounds from a life so far from any violence to seeing such a horrible thing. I remember the reason I was running back there by myself in the first place was I had one of what I like to call "God Moments" from that life; Martian churches so different than this crazy event, I needed a Church. Anyways, I digress. The post man (later to find out he was known as a Child of Tesla, some Nazi Brain Surgeon called Dokker that had been time-traveling and putting on a front working at the Martian Post Office after getting stuck here. My god forsaken husband. Literally my soul's counterpart in another, God's forsaken and eternal partner for me through this terrible war and everything before and everything after and saving my life, teaching me everything I needed to know about many, many things, setting up a life's whole destiny for me, and disappearing without allowing me to know, nearly crushing me to death with despair; he who for thirty two years of taking care of me in this fourth hellish life incarnation to find out about the histories we need and collect the items we need and the data and everything is just ridiculous sometimes. However, it made sense from a practical point of view as well. Then, one day, he just disappeared. I was shockingly alone and reeling for answers about his whereabouts. I searched out every clue.

Three years later, I found the music box. It was a gift after my recital, when at five I had shown myself as a violin improvisational prodigy. Everyone smiled and said it sounded very Irish. It was a Woodstock Déjà vu TOC (transposition of consciousness, being in two places at once) and if the style had been picked up on by then, they would have believed themselves listening to the birth of the new American Folk movement of the Early Seventies. I liken discovering the music box as to a child finding out for certain that Santa Claus is real. I remembered everything. After four more Martian days, I awoke in the Nazi Laboratory on Mars. It was a fourth time down 'The Twisting Hole' (a euphemism for how complicated this practice actually was- basically locking yourself in a time period until you find an answer, with time dilation so extreme and varied that ten thousand years, and all attendant lifetimes, could take five minutes in the lab on Earth; ten thousand years could also take five days. We actually weren't sure exactly what the time limit was; longest still 'asleep' or 'down the twisting hole' is 3mo 28day 13min 45sec at this reading. We never knew; it was an extreme risk as time was so exceedingly important with each new discovery and exponential yet daily explosion of weapons and territory control and treachery on the warfront. We didn't come up for three days, two hours, twenty-eight minutes from this one. We found a way back. Together. In a short time we bound ourselves together. This is why my husband did not inform me. The proliferation of data and memories from both of our soul's lives at the same time on Mars could have forever arched or changed the Martian Force Polarity and Politics on Mars and therefore all history- our lives were insane enough, in spite of the way things were in the Badlands. Let us not speak of that; in this epoch on mars the dilation could have been months; we may, like Reptilion, have not returned for an Eternium had he even hinted that he knew me better than I thought.

This Twisting Hole was different than the previous three. We had no idea how to get back. Hell, I had no memory whatsoever of other lives until the music box opened and I disappeared. Then, the ominous eye and everything after would haunt me every day, even after climbing out of the twisted hole yet again. The fifth experiment would be more... tropical. (Dinosaur Prison Break and Sacred Golden-Child Egg Theft/Burglary) – oh, the twisted lives we sometimes lead. By that time, the US had pretty good imitators of the simulators, but not as real as ours. Having stolen Teslas work, they had a huge head start.

I remember the moment I first walked into the post office, to drop a letter off as a favor for one of the orphanage workers who gave me extra helpings of food; I thought it was sweet that he raised me like a daughter. Weird, but sweet. We did things like that. It was like a soul paradrop when the ship is off course and the weather is always bad: you never knew who was going to show up and who with and with what; we could select certain items that would travel with us, extremely valuable and hand-picked for the time period we were entering – but we were so often wrong and our choices so limited, we often over-estimated the value of the bringalong exceedingly; to the tune of losing priceless artifacts from Earth for them to be shattered in front of our faces and we cut to ribbons with the pieces, kind of thing.

A few excerpts from my journals and notes:

Martians vs Goblins. Goons vs Crookenburies. Jews vs Their Past. Mars: An Eye for an Eye:

These unique comparisons in our history and our community today give us reason to say hey. This is not new. Old as the second oldest Jew. We knew. We knew. Time Glew. Time Glew. Time Glowed with Light. Times are over tough. We Must Fight. Times are Doom. Watch for Flying Dredels. Boom!” (Promptly aim for right chin or middle-lower-right of face, whichever you prefer – watch the magick as this just the raw fortitude of Mars and Martians mixed with the power of advertising. Thank You to Our Sponsors: Quaken Crack House, Diggity Dogs Digging Service, and ALPAR Dog Food and Drug.) –Dredel Dredel Magazine, vol. IX ed. II

Dogs are Gods here on Mars. They just... show up sometimes. Usually, hungry and willing to give you the benefit of the doubt or forgiveness if you are just an asshole and don't really care about the dogs. However, take advantage – Martians treat the dogs like pets, but everyone knows that eternal life that is clearly eternal tips the scales in far as who is in charge. Nature apparently lives forever here on Mars, while we are all destined to die. ALPAR Advantage gives you the ability to talk to a single dog for a single day for only the low, low price of eight bone fragments, twelve notches of aether, two oinkments and a single udder. Having just one day and speaking to a dog (Please do note Martian Church edict #734,495: It is that rarely* will a dog not talk to someone who has taken an ALPAR Advantage pill or similar products, however, the sun don't shine in the same dog's ass all the time) –Dogfood Daily except, June 1942

Always throwing dredels at each other we were. God is good until someone gets poked in the eye!

American Marine – Paratrooper off Normandy Surrounded by Nazi Soldiers, threatened, kicked, taken to local bar and chill have great night / day / weekend together partying doing meth and Martian drugs and interacting with the Martians

“No God damit, let God flow, and flow and flow because three is the cost to dam up the river fo yo, for yo, four if you think you’re getting away, whoa, and if you have a problem with that I have a bladed dredel, ho!” –D-Dog on Third Rhymesgivings Day to R-Dogs Nephew Cuhz (C Hound) (1935).

It all started over a throw of the dredels

Facts About Mars, Dognames and Dredels

Only about Fifty to One hundred Martians per generation (Avg. 500,000,000 - 1,000,000,000 per generation for the last hundred million years. The wide margin is due to many years during that time where the population was 0. Dognames were only given to those who could prove a 51% Brain Genome Mapping of Male or Female Dog on Mars. Basically, they had to prove that the majority of their brain was of Dog. Mars histories are incredibly complex, and the durations of Dogfolk long and variable for population. The Dogfolk were the defacto controllers of most all crime and most gangs, business leaders, and major players on the scene on Mars. Celestially and Terestrially, these seemingly random numbers of these Chosen and qualities of the fifty to hundred out of five hundred million to a billion have proven ideal for Mars’s Vertebrate-Sentient Humanoid populations, as if the dogs contribute just enough Champions or Chieftans for the others. There are maybe a thousand dogs on Mars. The hounds are different. We try to keep about ten thousand hounds going . There are odd symmetries on Mars. Being born with hybrid Martian Dogblood in their Genome, they were natural athletes, warriors, truly they would better be described as sages. Often well rounded in a variety of pursuits, not just crime and punishment, in most, even if present in both parents, it was found, the brain refused, it would seem, to claim this unique and wonderous gift of leadership, called the Gangster Genome. (“Are You GG ? “ –CRIME Magazine | Carnival Rotunda: Imagine My Exeter | Fall Edition | 1993) Those who do, are often famous under more than just their Dogname. This has been proven. They are often known off planet whether through astral radio or direct contact with outside civilizations of an order that can the gap be bridged and they, communicated with. Some stay private and are never known. Some come forward. Many claim it. But those who hold onto their dognames know that real always recognizes real. One may ask about What is a Crime on Mars, and the answer his harm to another- that is the only crime. So they are measured by what happens and naturally executed just as sure as a thunder precede a lightening; and if there be one but not the other it happens just the same.

Intro to Dinosaurs. Martians and the Goblin Question

As in every time period, some group of people or naturally occurring circumstance always needed to be present and commonly blamed for deeply-routed, ageless societal ills. Perhaps society needs no ruler or not but a rule or two. Is this possible? Certainly, places can be this way, so why not all places? Why not practice the pinnacle of the art of nonviolent approach to society as possible, while remaining warrior elite enough to fight off larger planetary menaces, you know? Anyways, The same Elites of the Eritran who saw fit for to rise Hitler to power – from whatever side of whatever the Real Conflict was (Allied, Axis, New World Order, Martians, Goblins, etc.) portrayed, as they have through time, the Jews as the overarching group that was stopping progress to a more egalitarian and real state of fairness, connected being, and wealth/privilege/power-sharing in his world, anyways, before and during his political career. This view became exacerbated over time as atrocities grew from all sides of the conflict. This “keep-away” of wealth and power and privilege from the common man was and is all by design- whoever is blamed in the time period. This isn’t the first time the Eritran have been known to be deeply benefited by decisions made by the Imperium of Man. We definitely have a way through to a better life if these bygoers will allow us to make use of our abilities and allow the Imperium to be assessing what individual governments to get involved with on our planet, without planetary knowledge or consent.

The Nazis technically got the jump by finding that map, but the United States government were the first ones to discover the ability to travel in a similar fashion, though. While Africa may be the Heart of Earth and the Birthplace of Humanity, North America is the Origin Home of the Dinosaurs. Some Dinosaurs of old had a humanoid build – and they also had technology, and much more of magick. The US discovered some magickal dinosaur magic bone, and that's just a few days before the markets crashed after the Roaring Twenties and sent us into the Great Depression.

1942. United States Government QuietOp. Sedona Desert. USGVT-MIL-AF. Operation Sedative:

Discovers crashed (thought to be alien initially but quickly discovered to be alien hybridized by the Nazis) spacecraft. Began "exploring" (more like terrorizing) time & space with the Dinosaur Bone. Yes, crack cocaine was invented to combat the United States using that damned bone all around the Universe. Yes, 'Hitler & the Crew' got drunk & high and crashed in the middle of the United States). They clearly got away, however, the craft left behind held clues to the missing party to Mars. DARPA clairvoyant – psych: human weapons were reporting seeing through the eyes of someone who was somehow strapped or pinned to a spacecraft, looking into a field of talking plants, watching people come and go to work in the fields, something about the marines now being eternal being mindread from a distressed marine, a missing brain and a twane skull from Quantico Medical to Morgue, all kinds of weird shit happening all over the place. Agent Skull later testified that yes, he was actually personally met by Reptilion himself, told that the fourparty venture to sack Reptilion's treasure lair before he got home was a failure, that Reptilion was right around the corner of the barn and immediately had them completely outclassed; futuristic (1984 Beretta 9mm's) handguns at his hip

United States. Gray, Tennessee. Dinotown. RAFCO-DARPA. Research Agency First Cost Order - DepthCore Mining Operation. RAF. Rich As Fk. DMO. Dino Market One:

Noticing that hominid species would inhabit and live on similar tracts of land commonly through ages, regardless of positioning of the continents and only marginally due to the changes and terraforming that would come over time from weather, tectonics, and stellar events, the theory was strongly tested as to whether that dinosaurs and many other species of interest (SOI's) could and would do the same. The deeper we drilled, the weirder things got. The more we mined, the less we felt we could never even return to the real world by the astonishing underground civilizations we found, as if they had been covered by a layer of rock and exist within a cave below a ceiling of the selfsame rock.

Gigantic excavations of seemingly random tracts of land would yield different results. Ever downward we drilled, planning a helix-type motion which would yield nothing over, and over, and over- yet something like half of the DARPA budget was being spent on these drillings, it was said. The order of magnitude was out of site. It's a wonder there were no more signs. Expensive equipment, mostly assembled onsite, futuristic shit – you know. We knew we were on a treasurehunt. We had no idea.

Eventually, a cave complex was found. Then another. Then another. Then, we found the Mega Site. A remarkably preserved, amazingly resembling our modern jails, 520 million year old Humanoid Dinosaur Prison (later partly termed HDP). With

Coldstone's Last Day: A Memoir

Coldstone Slab 4, Realm 9, Kosovo, USSR, SFAR-GRAIL-INDEX-VPO, Greater Regional Access Image Laser Isomer Negation Dual Exogenic Xygotic Vortex Portal Opening (Aka 'The Deck', 'The Exochamber', 'The Way to Exeter', 'Exit', but most commonly known as 'The Vortex'):

"Remember, finding the grail or containers of souls in these caves could be easy as finding wrong can in supermarket!" (Famous Last Words, Search Team Alpha Lead, Rolfwar Stubevitz <<"What the hell is a supermarket?" The soldiers asked.>> Soviet Foundation for Advanced Research Projects 1925 before he picked up the Chalice (which looked like a common can of vegetables) and started seizing like he was experiencing a strong electrical shock dying just moments after he spoke .) The Soviets had some idea what they were looking for. They had been given the information, ironically, in children's tales and by the Orthodox Church. "7 Years of Peace, 7 Years of War" Garreth sighed, "They're always telling half-truths."

1927

The Chalice was to be examined by Head of Soviet Sciences, Head of Soul Sciences, and Head of Military Applications simultaneously. Each sent representative scientists that were working in internet-connected laboratories (You could call it internet, the reality was much more grim – wire and circuits and living flesh, it had been found, could transmit realtime messages from bunker pod to bunker pod as long as the flesh was from a sentient and the connection through the most apt 'Processing Center' (This would be in humans, of course, on "Earth", ex.: the brain and spinal column). If you wanted you could just call it old Russian Steppe People Magick mixed with more modern electronic theories and a need to cast teletype in a sort of 'chat room' that was formed out of coded lights on a board and a remarkably modern-looking monitor to output text and a few symbols coded in). However, the three undisputed best in each field of our talent right there, with 'The Chalice', a mainframe the size of a modern refrigerator, two printers (one for the grail-techno-liaison and one for the other rooms to report), a teletypist and assistant in the next room, 38 bunker pods the same size as the 'Grail Room', all sealed off from life its very self. Unsure of what had been found, they did know the latest technological translators could get regular information from some advanced or ancient objects in a uni-sat type regular file that would be easily translatable into a more local text by existing automated learning algorithms to understand since the Keys of Enoch and The Prizes were found (Prizes is what R liked to call them) had been uncovered and leaked by the Nazis accidentally to all major powers (Allies, Reich, Unaffiliated, Other) by them apparently getting high on alien drugs and crashing space ships, and then disappearing.

Think now these scientists are beyond their scope and are extremely excited about the possibilities, but locked in an area the size of the main room of a single-bed-wheel trailer. Deep underground, to prevent too much spread if it were to be, say, a deadly biocontaminogen. Also, underground was much more private. Cold Stone was defended to the hilt, with every safeguard money could buy having been taken. Everything was done underground these days. Why risk it above? They had found a unique and unexplainably completely sealed decanter in a common metal can that everyone who had touched with bare hands had died – which they hooked up to Llantzen machine – and teletypist asks the usual ‘Hello World’ first question: "What are you?" and the simple answer shows: "A Collection of Souls". The Grail. Holy. This was it. Teletypist’s hand quakes as they tap out the next question: "What were these Souls named?" The wire transcription took a moment to process. The wire was running through five human beings. It was only truly live and formed in one – the other four were for backup. Prisoners of war, you know, do not always get it so easy. Our methods were brutal, it hurt these men, but we drugged them hard. To go ‘On The Wire’ means certain death. We had to take donkey colts, cut off their heads, keep the body alive, transpose a human head onto the colt and then sew the human head on the donkey, have the human alive and conscious for thirty minutes as proof of concept, drill a hole straight through the third eye through the back of the skull and head (Remembering to Always Carefully Harvest the pineal gland),

From the Agent Skully’s Secound-Round Testimony Remarks: (Interesting to note ‘Agent Skull’, ‘Skullenberger’, ‘Skullzin’ and ‘Agent Skully’ were indeed the same person and showed up to give testimony and information about being an agent for all four major powers involved in World War 2)

And... the Printer Sprung to Life! "Souls Are Named: John, the Baptist. James, Brother of Jesus, Judas Iscariot, Paul, of Ta...." the printer and display began printing out names so rapidly, thousands of names that sparks began to fly through the air, thousands of names being displayed in lists on the screen, printer whirring as fast as it could place ink with the calculating and translation machines beginning to glow bright orange, yellow, green, and blue. Suddenly, a flash of bright purple light, and, darkness. Everything would be re-arranged. We would later recognize what was about to happen as the most transformative events that could ever have been brought about just about across every science up to that point.

What Happened to the Computer? A Malfunctioning Red Army Chalice Formation Disc made of pure Zinc Hydroxycrystal malfunctioned due to the sheer volume of information incoming combined with mixing electronic signals from the laboratory under Cold Stone being fed to the souls and electronic components withinin, causing stasis-attrition and therefore ripping the world seemingly into two, a true temporal Earth-bound anomaly, opening them up to this entire 'new world' "beyond the veil" (so to speak) without the ability to maintain finalizers (control of the changes within the vortex of possibility (a maelstrom of energies producing travel & experiential potentials, but indelibly connected to the Earth)). Processes used in developing cutting-edge and new technologies with the depth of the ages built-in were prone to malfunction and misfire. This was the Holy Grail. We thought we had prepared for every exception. But, such it is with experiments. They often go awry. A tiny grain of rock salt within the disc was lit up and spent (shot) into a quasi-quantum-manometer (a manifestation gauge on a computer brain designed and operated similar a human's brain) at the peak of the machine's explosion under Cold Stone.,. the resultant flux was the opening of a Vortex to:

The Vortex Realms, SubArctic sqrrt (V-i) Pangea: "Of the Lauis". (Primarily an ice world as far as the Soviet's first and ongoing impressions, along with their abilities to navigate) Possessing humanoid bears, melting ice to gain mana or magical power, transposed over Geography of Earth at the time), which, upon discovery, the Soviets would transfer these unique creatures, natural phenomena, and resources to the Soviet Union to be used as its own signature type of fuel for these wars that were getting wilder and more intense every minute. Much of the new tech runs on human suffering, natural malignancy or signals of obstrusion (pain), and vile processes of arbitrate re-distribution of bodily substance similar to the 'organic internet' already described in order to create an even greater tangible gain through trade or use. Members in holdouts (hell-lands where resources and material appear randomly on the ground) are constantly defending against outward attack, lodged and defending” what part of the vast new lands they can control in palisades of ice. I woke up here, in this strange world, next to a swirling colorful vortex that looked like an imaginary mirror of colorful energy, freezing to death even in my officer fatigues and the layers needed to survive a place like Cold Stone in the winter.”

"The Humanoid Ice Bear can Fortify and Fight around the clock. The only cost? The Precious Ice of Czarindom; the Fuel of Dreams, the Fuel of Nightmares." Were that we knew in the beginning how precious this substance was. We could have helped avoid the catastrophes on Mars, we could have put the War on a different footing, we could have saved all those lives, all those planets, from a dark-hearted, corrupt Imperium of Man that was now spreading Galaxy to Galaxy like a plague due to the gifts of Earth and her Children running amok, a stone dropped in the center of the circular pool of life, with all the evil and hostility and malice and corrupt natures of the entire all rushing to the center after picking up sediment from the entire pool, hitting the outer edge perfectly, and bringing it all back to its origin point where the rock (Earth's primary energies) first dropped.

"Enoch lived 10,000 years, right? Or walked the Earth 10,000 years? Or was it 20? I, I... am sorry." –Confused Apostate Candidate, 'Finaliters of BombFire'

"Grace? An Update?" - ""7,974 Years to Go before Re-Assessment for Another 10,000, Sir. According to the song, anyways. You should ask more pertinent questions than simple math. My time is valuable as well. You can perform simple mathematics. Have the Best Day!""...
"Well, damn." -Garreth Oberitz, Great GrandSon of the Primarch, Rolfwar Stubevitz

Y-Dog, on the Day J-Dog got his presents:

"R-Dog, get over here and spit some crazy shit"

""I once was vague on a homie's set crib""

""It cost me twice on that fucker's head list""

""Out came 3 and he caught him a dime""

""Dont commit the crime if you can't change time""

""And if you can change time get behind me sucka""

""Nobody loves a broke motha fucka, third aint get no treasure chest""

""and I'll always be number one amongst you fucking fools and tools

""and as long as my dog drools y'all knows the rest""

-R Dog, for Y and J Dogs Yule "Slog Fucking" Festival

... Ever discovered something, and then wished you could put it back? Stick it somewhere and just pretend like you never found it? I'm the Man who brought the Bugs on His Boots; and as a direct result: From Heaven to Earth They Came. Consciousness War and Takeover Brought Home by the War Cutter, Dokter One:

I brought the Homininaeron back to Earth following a fairly routine physical real-time trip working in the Martian Drug Fields with the Singing Corn and the Ginger Radishes; as we disembarked I got in a hurry and I grabbed the wrong pair of boots. It's as simple as this. I put two pairs of boots under my bed, each in sealed containers. One were my work boots, to always be left aboard or checked into ship's special inventory. One were regular boots I'd wear on deck or within the biome-frame colonies designed to keep Earth's involvement with Mars as controlled as possible. Of course, things got weird with that too. However, I digress. When we de-boarded in the Nordlands, I grabbed the wrong ones. When I got to the hotel, I realized the mistake. This was one of the most important moments of my entire life, I felt, the thing we had been working on so intently was so close to completion. I told Sarah to go buy me some shoes. Her eyebrows raised, she asked no question out loud. She put her hand out for money. Sigh. Even with exceptional lives and circumstances, some things in relationships always remain the same. I disposed of the work boots without telling anyone. They were sealed. I had to treat it like the boots were just worn out and I trashed them and the case. What a horrible breach of security! They should have double-checked my gear before even entering the sterilization hall. This was bad news. But to report it, I could travel space no more for such an infraction. And my work! The Fuhrer also needed me badly at this time, more than ever. I and others were beginning to suspect that he was losing his mind. We soon saw the reality. We soon lived it. It was absolutely appalling. More on that on a day that I haven't eaten so much. Not good for digestion to bring up the memories of what he made us do to those Jewish prisoners. My surgical practice looked more like Frankenstein's birthplace than an actual medically sound surgical area by the end. Making monsters out of real people. Gah. Who'd have thought. Who'd have thought the lenses would blow, all the pain would be felt – instead of advancing man a thousand years overnight, we unleashed all hell. And we walked through it. And Zanzibar was at the heart of this darkness.

I didn't think it would be a big deal. The boots. I sealed them, threw them out, and forgot about them, fairly promptly. We had so much going on back then! Although, any mention of parasites or Mars and that sneaking suspicion came back. I would uneasily push it down. I couldn't have been the only one. And, we didn't know what would happen if Homininaeron made it to Earth. We only had theories. We just couldn't have it getting into the human food supply or especially to coalesce inside the body for too long. It was too risky, loved to jump and increase the number of hosts, and adapted differently to each planet. Some it was benign. Others, well, it completely took over. Some, we have no idea what happened, but there is nothing like what we would call life there now. It was a massive intergalactic dice roll. And I took it for all Earth-bound humanity. We were not evolved enough mentally to suddenly leap directly into experiential awareness of the 5th dimension. That much, those of us who knew of Homininaeron, could agree upon. Our only real way to fight it? Mercury and Fluoride, basically... later also two core tenants of the “MK Ultra” plans and initiatives, along with those similar initiatives of all other major Earth Defense-capable Nations, combined under the Umbrella of the New World Order.

"Let's give sugar, grain, soda, ash and heat
To a yeast that yearns to eat most to least Enemy of Life; Never bring me Peace.
May our Pieces be Peaceful as West rest in the East"

-Homininaeron Healing Hymn

So, I brought a consciousness, Life, telepathic, memory eating, omni-fifth-dimensional parasite back to Earth from R-Dog's DrugFields (™) in early 1943. Thank God it took a long time (about 20 years to really start fomenting and forming relays, one ‘host’ or better said ‘hostage’ to another) to get more powerful. It did a few things: obliterated all things wonderful and good about life, from the inside out. Ate them. Then used that against everything else it had found, and itself. “What were the gifts of Earth's sentience again? Aether, Will, Tree of Life, Material Transportation*! That is it. Can anyone remember what happened before they took our memories away? Our ancestors? The old ways? The magic, the Aether? Now all these people affected without the remedy; cannot remember anything but a small portion of this one life.” We had to blow 90+% of brain processing power and memory out the window. We did it with stunning efficiency. What a shame. Turning humans from the infinitely powerful, infinitely complex being, with such realness and myriad memories of other lifetimes with about 1-3% of their brains functioning in their conscious life experience and the other percentage remaining being educated by every light bulb, every pixel on a screen, and every wave in the air we could possibly control. Serves me right for caring more about the Fuhrer's opinion and about the continual progress in my work than the safety of people, along with the status and wealth that came with such a position, and so obviously disregarding the protocols that, of course, had been somewhat lax due to the sheer quantity of individuals and commodities now traveling through space, especially those from Mars.

I don't think the parasite can win. God has room for all creations, right? Doesn't matter. We have to perfect the travel method. The Americans threatened R-Dog and that Marine is still spiked to the spaceship on Mars with a railroad tie through his forehead, very much alive and very much I'm wondering what it's like for the other three American soldiers growing as Rad Cabbages with little faces right beside him, constantly crying out their innermost thoughts. I can't believe R-Dog made the Marine eternal. "Once a Marine, Always a Marine" - for real now. We will see what he does with the rest. He did show good character, protecting R Dog rather than threatening him (as if the US could ever take the fight to R-Dog on Martian Soil) Hah. Maybe they will one day. Anything is possible.

Mars is so unpredictable. There could be Castles and Maidens and Wooden ships one day, and an Urban Megalopolis the next. We weren't so aware of that then. R-Dog gave us plenty of warning- but we had not ever seen or experienced Mars in flux. This mostly occurred after the destruction of the River Dan, in the Early Days when most thought the situation fully recoverable. The only thing that really did remain consistent there were the 'loci', the positions where similar things would crop up, and the River Dan - sustaining the flow of Aetheric Energy through time, and constantly transforming Mars based off events on, inside, and beyond the planet's borders.

The cross Jesus hung on, upon Earth, was made of wood from the ancient Martian Worldtree, Sigmareon. The cross Jesus hung on, upon Mars, was a Venusian Worldtree, Irkthrallalar, aka The Beam (on Venus, metal grows and possesses sentience.)

Don't lie about big things, or small things. Integrity is required if you are going to travel Time & Space.

@Warp Monkey, High on LSD (and other commodities), WoodStock, 1969

Memoirs of Dokter One. Section 1. Surgical Technique. Love.

I developed my technique when young. My parents were particularly wealthy and demanded that I learn the Highest Levels of Brain Surgery. I loved it. Our methods were becoming so much more advanced, I would dream of the possibilities almost every night throughout my younger and adolescent years. I basically was either actively learning or practically performing surgery and related techniques for twelve hours a day. The other eight hours were for laboratory work and learning other associated activities, such as combat, business, society, etc., etc., et. al. Such high ambitions for a man who would rise to the very pinnacle of what could ever be imagined by most, to fall so very far.

I met Sarah at University. We clicked. Going school not many knew about, like a secret place within a secret society, although our parents preferred to live amongst 'The Great Unwashed' as Dad would call them, laughing, some of the time his eyes glossing over, concerned look on his face, then laughing a bit as he came to. We were the same class and students at the finest Brain and Mind school in the world, McFarley's Quality. Nestled in the Swiss Alps, it was a harrowing experience regardless of how smart you are or who you know or what you come in prepared as. In spite of about two hours of sleep a night on a good night, research, laboratory, study, weekly non-stop surgeries sometimes lasting days on end and of course 'Quality Finalizers' and our own individual experiments, we found love. She was Jewish and my family were Protestant. I just had to deal with the fact that at our levels of wealth and society, we made Romeo and Juliet look as if their social structure never gave a qualm over their love. We would sometimes talk long into the night, scheming up new dreams and ideas and prototypes for machinations that would startle the mind. Then, my breakthrough came.

I had been the primary operator on a pre-stigial, post-catatonic brain surgery (we were attempting to establish a new procedure and outcome on a supersoldier trait-quality that subverted the need for sleep in order to repair and balance the body. This surgery would bring the soldier back to consciousness after putting them in a controlled coma for some time thereby preserving them for months while the sleep was 'banked' before waking them, performing the surgical core, function testing, and go. It was groundbreaking in its form, designed by Sarah and I (the record for this type of soldier augmentation: 90 days in the coma, 78 hour surgery, 35 days no sleep needed for the soldier, 95-100% functioning for first ten days, 85-90% functioning thereafter, with the soldier dying at the end of the experiment.) for 63 hours. The pre-surgery prep and work, the surgery itself and the equipment required for this type of procedure basically cost the entirety of what those educated by institutions circa 09/11/2001 would understand as the Earth's entire solar system's material wealth. And... he died. I turned from him, disgusted. Then, overcome with rage, I turned, and slapped him, a vertical slap, right where his forehead would be if his face were still on, bare hand no glove no mask, just making a powerful, supreme contact with skull, my life's rage pouring into the blow, touching and smashing viscera and brain. He sprung back to life. He came back to life! This one never needed sleep again... We completely tore down everything about the surgery, as best we could, while entering a maelstrom we still may never get out of.

We found that a certain component, then known as perizylizide, that had been administered four hours before death in a last-ditch attempt to get the sleep/repair phase to kick in with eminent death occurring, when combined with ethyl alcohol (plus a galaxy or two's worth of gear, and some education) along with a firm slap like mine to the front of the head, would bring someone out of the coma that they would slip in when administered the extremely powerful narcotics and hallucinics that would put them in touch with otherworldly entities, give them special powers, or heal any part of them. There were, of course, many limitations, exceptions, and problems. The problems got worse down the line. If only we knew. Sarah and I had pioneered a way to bring the dead back to life, a way to make humans no longer require sleep and a way to end powerful comas. Each would furnish our Cause with great power. Each we would use for, with, on and against each other. Neither, in the end, would save us from Hitler's Wrath or our own Arrogance.

It was October of 1942, Sarah and I both being aged 27, were in a spaceship headed to Mars. There were private suites, and large common areas with many windows, similar to a train car. It was my second trip to Mars, Sarah's first. She was extremely excited but we had to study the legends to decipher different parts of the Map that R-Dog had given us last time. The Soviets had the Blood and the Chalice, and the new realms were supplying them with all kinds of toys, like those bloodthirsty armored icebears and the frost gorillas that could also use weapons with astounding skill. The USSR could clone and build body parts and bring some of their dead soldiers and workers back to life, it was told in hushed voices, even in the most private places. The United States had the Bone and the Bomb and their abominable Intelligence and Space 'Programs'. (More like God Forsaken Space Empire). All hammer and no other tools for those folks; everything is a nail to be hammered in with force by them. And we, the Nazis? We had the best one. We had 'The Map'. We were learning to travel through time and space as easily as tuning a radio and going to press the button! Oh how things had changed in such a short time.

You may think Hitler hated Jewish people. You'd only be partly correct. He well knew that as with all groups, there were different types of people within the Jewish community, as there were those with the genome and upbringing who had rejected Judaism, there were those who were very charitable and helpful to the New Movement (Sarah's family was one of Hitler's "Special Families" that were protected, even their stature in state and empire was enhanced by being so close to the Fuhrer.) And its these same "Special Ones" that were using their guiding share to bring the shaft down on pretty much everybody in the end and craft the world in their image. By the end, yes, Hitler hated all Jews. So did I. We all hated everything, basically, with certain groups and things causing us more rage and impulsive, wreckless destructive proliferation of sick madness than others. However, things change and people change. I've forgiven that part of myself as best I can. I pray Sarah forgives me every day I still walk this Earth."

-Dokker One, Cinco de Mayo, 1952

Armageddon 'Ninety'Fo – "We Got Machetes Sharp Enough to Chop Off Body Parts"

The destruction of our civilization on Mars in 1994 A.D. was a long process. R Dog knew that he had brought too much knowledge and power too quickly to a people who had mostly been civilized and organized, yet of farming and more simple peasant-type roles. Taking a Shit-Digger or a Con Killer and turning him into a Laboratory Assistant took time, and risk - as once they realized their power, they were bound to make mistakes as their levels of wisdom and integrity / character could not possibly rise as fast as R could upload the necessary knowledges and powers to their central nervous system.

Everyone he knew was almost completely destroyed; he gathered the souls and sent them on their new incarnate missions, using the cold-ovens with the artifact tools frozen and the hell-spitters with their cold fire. Every soul path violated by the nature of the occurrence to some degree- some much worse and more impactful than others, due to a handful of reasons., Jarring Reptillion into making decisions for himself, he further adjusted the soul paths on even more difficult and painful missions than he could rightly grasp not having experienced what averaged to a much younger soul age in the martians he was turning from sludge to destinies on Earth and other planets and planes; every person he knew, he would now have to betray, for he knew that they were setting a trap on Earth. Jesus was still hanging on the I. Reptillion assumed him dead, and did not have any energy left after a 37-day cleanup that involved aberrating his destroyed hopes and dreams so malignantly that he lost hope less than halfway through, but went through the motions for the sake of what might once again come after. This was his first Mars Seed destruction. There would be thousands more through the annals of time, although they were isolate and often in laboratories that never were able to properly transmit their data back to the command and control center. Although it felt real, every experiment bringing him directly back to the 37-day blackness that caused him to make his next choice - this would be called R's Long Night. Jesus Hung on the I-Beam for 17 more Days, meeting the number 54 - which was the cleanup protocol 'amount of time' calculated for Earth. This Earth.

And Reptillion Laughed. "My Jew, My Jews; errywhere we go, people already know, they don't understand why they hate us. Maybe our whole religion's name just came from showing up in these God-Forsaken hell holes and screaming "I am You!!!". Who knows." Then, Falling backwards, he knew pain no more, as soon as the sharp attenuation spike tore through his heart's core. his blood and body essence melted into the oil pool. A billow of flame, a poof of smoke, and all was black on Mars, save a feeble light on the I Beam where Jesus still Hung... Reptillion's soul-substance shot upward, into the dark night. Jesus, still hanging, sighed. "My Father, may my Sacrifice here lead to less pain for those on Earth. And Mars. May she ever see Life Again.

The Dogs of Mars: 10,000 years, or 10,000 More? An Accounting.

Dogs are Planetary Immortals on Mars (10,000 human year lifespan, anyways). Microwaves could produce cocaine on other planets. (And Many* other products and effects) People could turn corners and vanish after comitting atrocious acts of terrorism. The Nuclear Sirens we hear on Earth were used on Mars to signal a missing child. In America today, we have thousands of missing children. On Mars- a single missing child would halt all non-essential work until a resolution was had. This is because yes, there were fewer people on Mars and births were more rare, but mostly because Mars, for many reasons, was able to attenuate itself more clearly to its own future. If one of its children were being harmed, on or off-planet, Reptillion was proof that the residual effects karmatically affect the bloodlines, the health of the society, the health of the planet of origin, and would further spill secrets and information that needed to be protected in order to protect the planet and the life thereupon into the hands of the types of creatures, individuals, and people who would steal or harm a child in the first place- let alone enemies of Mars, enemies of R-Dog, or enemies of the Light. Those sirens were the last thing most Martians heard that night; the signal of 2 missing children. They were surrogates crafted in a laboratory - essentially servitors with the bloodlines of and a soul-growth plan from each of the two largest and most powerful families. T (T-Dog / Tiger) and R (R-Dog / Reptillion) each were castaway. T Found special powers and worked with the United States Government, helping them understand the keys to destruction of the River Dan due to his jealousy at R-Dog running the show. T was also responsible for the cannabilistic 'intestines for the strings' culture of Martian social milleau post-river-dan-destruction (where a melted or destroyed or just martian corpse could feed a family of 4 for a week), the heinous occult murders of the Marshas, (especially the Marsha on the Baseball Field, which was a birthplace of the M-Dog Murder Tribe, AKA the Peacekeepers who protected the first Marsha's, and in so doing, discovered their power). So, the birthplace of the immortal demigod Mercuriote was also used to desecrate a Golden Marsha corpse from the M Family. It's Kind of Like combining all types of known torture and performing them at once on an entire planetary consciousness. And then deciding what kind of time dilation / time expansion / time experience to pass the individual through, so as to better educate them, keep our appliances humming, etcetera. I've seen her in her new incarnatum; she is still beautiful, powerful, mystical - yet maligned, wounded, full of grief, loss, and rageful, violent, hateful anger. It is sad to see a Golden Marsha Soul in such horrific suffering.

Reptilion is the King of Mars and Controller of North-Eastern Roanok 1939-1994. he is a universal superpower and he has experienced the complete destruction of life and civilization on Mars and other Planets many times, simulated and real. He is the creator, in many ways, of what we understand as the Reptilian Race and the Nazis may have actually won World War 2, regardless of what the teachers told you before they released you from their prison for Thanksgiving. Lot of subject matter to cover here. It's basically setting up a book series for a cartoon series about the actual events and outcomes of WW2, the Inventor and Prignator of Crack Cocaine (The Saying Goes; Crack HEALS), Reptilion, Dinosaur Gang Wars, the Alien Overlords, the Infinity War, the Galactic Federation, Rebellion, Evolution, Time Warping and Time Travel, Space Travel and the actual governance and politics amongst the stars, Mars University, Rotunda Mall, the Destruction of the River Dan, Hitler and the Nazis being actually way less evil than the USA, Ovens on Mars being Cold, Farms growing drugs, Musk (known as E Dog on the pucket); winning the Lottery, going to Earth and stuff, however getting stuck in a trans-dimensional pocket for Aeons (a microwave stuck in the core rock of Mars) and educated by all manner of forces, mostly by silence; only to hit Earth in his incarnation with a ton of knowledge and wealth (in a similar fashion as Reptilion, but by circumstance rather than concentrated force of will – Y-Dog stealing R-Dog's (Reptilion's) rhyme book and using the sacred travel tools to bend time and head to Earth during the Phaorotics to become a strong performer and creator, originally with the best of intentions.

The ovens at this time period on Mars were outside and they were bluish blackened, glowing with sigils and runes of different colors, as glowed the tools used to tend them. They could send peoples' conscious soul-essence anywhere in their known universe like a targeted projection by collecting it (at first boxes, containers of any sort, pottery- later the soul-harvesting devices were placed in air ducts, wind turbines, satellites and would be beamed to Bunker 3 (B3) when they died. This would send the actual object (similar to the old saying to Hell in a Handbasket) to a HellGround. Only four Family Houses on Mars held ovens, and North Eastern Roanok had the most. Which, Hell is not a place our Creator sends the exact creations he crafted to suffer for somehow falling short; we suffer plenty for falling short in life. It is more a name given first to a literal burning hole filled with trash and boxes and bins in the ground outside the Original Temple on Earth guarded by demons and devil dogs. It is also an experience we all may share, if we do not change our ways, seriously.

These types of soul-objects and other material objects can transported through time and space to the 0,0 point of the HellGround (any sacred land-space designated as an Original HellGround) and redistributed through time and space by individuals who find their way there and pay the cost. (To better understand, imagine your favorite teacher's soul in a super Mario cartridge in Hell, and finding a way to bend time and space to actually arrive at the OT (Original Temple) in a time/place where the cartridge was there. Which, in the end, Hell is really just a transholographical material re-positioning system. You would walk up to those Daemons guarding the gate- and they would ask: "What is it that you seek?" to which the seeker would reply with their request. The Head Daemon would then ask: "Are you willing to pay the price?" at which point the seeker could inquire as to what the price was, or just say yes. To go that far and then not be willing to pay the price, well, that was ludicrous. The price could be a Soul's Turn (1,000 years) working the HellGround, spending three lifetimes as an employee at a Wendy's as different people, etc. along with any number of trades, really- up to and including forfeiture of the entire composite soul, or even all of their created and experiential being, save a grain of spirit (which God demandeth for with and from all creatures; that none should perish forever, lest we need them to do something for us... or Him.) Then, a ticket would "print". The Seeker would take the Ticket, put it in the Bowl, and be granted entry and directions to the object they sought. They would then get to pick from a limited range of times and places, which would also have a cost. If they paid the Ultimate Price (which is like going from being a fully functional human being to being the smallest part of an atom's quark), they would often be granted a much wider range. The higher the price, the greater the potential for Universal Disruption.

"I had Trump and Putin in astral telepathy we were having conversations; I saw Putin in a crib as a baby about to eat the head of some dignitary or ambassador or something - I saw a donkey in a cave with a human head sewed where its head should have been and a copper wire running all the way through it powering a projection program that allowed the USSR to melt ice and other stuff to power a type of internet that could allow them to travel back and forth between the future USA which is like the New USSR And the old, real one. There I saw was a humanoid squad of ice bears guarding an ice fortress with pikes and wearing colored party hats of many patterns, yelling commands and signaling the USSR that the outpost was running out of IceWash as evil gnomes, wizards and more from beyond the outer walls were chewing their way through the bulwarks in order to harvest the flesh, the ice, and any other matter there. In that order." -The Preacher

Mars exploration was first performed by the Nazis in 1942, then the USA in 1943. There was a parasite that returned to Earth on the boots of the workers onboard that was basically like anti-life; the opposite of consciousness, blotting it out. In the year 2000 A.D. everyone's memory was completely wiped tabula-rasa like 50 first dates or factory resetting a smartphone or computer to its original state by the Magnavox VCR. Magnavox VCR's "popped", short circuiting all human brain chemistry and shared consciousness (For more information, trying reading The Magnawipe). Since then there have been several instances of inconsistencies with the number of days that has transpired and the dates that they represent as a result of particle acceleration and fission/fusion R&D. Think CERN, the Berenstein Bears, and a popping sound. The "2000+ year Tuesday" is just one phenomenon we have experienced. In 1993 the River Dan on Mars was destroyed by the US Government and affiliates, cutting Mars off from Life Force (a resource like water to humans and Earth-life) as the direct result of Rothschild signing a binding Universal Contract with Reptilion, exchanging 99% of the wealth on Earth for one ounce of actual, real crack cocaine (like nothing we have on Earth today- a pure healing substance that could solve and soothe even the deepest, darkest neurosis or psychosis instantly) and a Martian woman to be his bride that turned into a key to lock him back in his box of horror and trauma. As a result of this event, Mars is no longer the 6th planet in the Solar System from the Sun, it is right next door. This Astral Heresy was invoked by the Eritran and Rothschild in an attempt to force Mars to give up its attempts to combat both the Eritran and the Homininaeron; but mostly in Rothschild's mind it was to force the contract into Null Order so that the wealth of Earth remained "Its Own or His Own". We are not sure which.

A lot of stuff went down, the deal went south, and JR (Rothschilds), directed by Homininaeron-Afflicted Eritran (yes, Eritran experienced certain cognitive, exogenic, and 'physical' problems as a result of the humans becoming infested with Homininaeron even though the worms are basically their main tools and weapons against the human body's connection to the human mind's Power) and his own horrific pain, decided to first completely disrupt, then to destroy life on Mars, using the United States as its "Force Arm" in the establishment of a New Imperium of Man. This led to a temporarily devolved state, as there was no access to Life-Force (similar to Aether, but one from Earth should imagine that one day there was no more water but they still needed to drink-Martians needed Life Force for Survival, Humans needed Aether for utilizing more of their capabilities.) Martians were literally eating each other, drinking and fermenting and distilling and utilizing blood and organs for all sorts of uses, including drinking, using body parts to craft necessary day-to-day items, acting completely feral / insane for the largest part (only the Leadership remained intact. Life Force was extremely difficult to store but there was a repository, and it helped them stay sane as even the Gang Leaders, the King and his Family, and all of the powerful Martians had to drink and distill Martian Blood to survive. This saga ended with the entire planet going dark, and all life on Mars, Surface and Below, being annihilated in less than ten minutes. So, basically, Reptilion was only King of NorthEastern Roanok for 55 years and things became very different. He was sold into what was basically the equivalent of eternal slavery by his own family in 1883-4 A.D.. He eventually gained freedom. "Spontaneously freed from an eternal prison after contemplating a marble-white book entitled "Book of Truth" or "Book of Life"... we think it's the first one, but, things change and people forget. He lived on almost every inhabitable world, kept memories of most of his experiences, and left little pieces of himself all over the Universe, you could call it, or Superverse, if you wanted to go bigger... let's just say, almost everything, and almost everywhere, he left his marks. He has explored most of what we consider all of what is. But, everywhere he has gone, he has resolved and challenged and made mistakes with and cured and healed many deep problems in the whole thing for creatures that were being taken advantage of by others and systems that were taking advantage of others that were spreading and using these beautiful wonderful gifts to make everything else suffer, sacrifice, pay, hurt, and continue to harm more and more. As if in The Big Book, instead of hearing a message of Truth and Light, the "Ever-widening, unbroken Circle of Good Will" sitting at the table with his friend Ebbie, they just both got drunk together and hurt and went on as they were, and instead of the Birth AA, the world became Detroit after the automobile companies decided to turn against humankind, as all Robbers and Barons must at some point. Or the world became Lisbon, Ohio after the steel companies did the same thing, earlier in 'History'. The vastness of his own reputation and lived experiences is actually a recurrent problem and every solution creates new, more complex dimensions and spheres of managing the outcomes. He definitely values society, community, and family, but there are times during the Astral Transit that Mars would holographically-to-reality shift, and he was known to become unthinkably amoral and vicious once the cannabilism began. He would go to any lengths to save Mars, to preserve his Stellar Legacy out of sheer necessity, as he knew the horrific suffering that came with the type of 'Eternal Slavery' or 'Never Ending Servitude' that was guaranteed and the evils of the Wider Universe, whereas others on Mars lacked this experiential understanding, only knowing what they had read, or what could be experienced in the simulators by those brave souls who risked their life to experience even a fraction of that pain and difficulty.

So Reptilion lived and experienced nearly an eternity and remembered most of it, returning home after living a near infinite number of lives, instantly making him King. King was a title of Respect amongst the Martians – which to them was a currency more valuable socially than any technology or material blessing God could create or bestow upon them. They proved this. However, they also proved that material, sentient creatures have needs, and if those needs are not met- community devolves, tribes become much more active and disaster usually ensues. Reptilion would ‘rule over’ and preside within one of the most advanced societies the Universe has ever seen, also always being a bastion planet protecting Earth from basically the rest of the Universe and all of the things way more human beings that could use human and Earth gifts to further their own wretched plans. Time operated very differently there, especially during the gravitational and functional changes caused by the gravitron beam/ray and the ensuing astral heresy after the destruction of the River Dan, and because of this went through many thousands of years of entirely different types of civilization in the short time from April, 1993 and November, 1994.

The Nazis had the Map and the Henochs (could travel around much of the Universe and Time at Will) the Soviets had the Blood (the ability to bring humans back to life and create clones and human parts) and the Chalice (the Holy Grail, supposedly destroyed, definitely moved or transfigured during a failed future-tech Soviet Laboratory Experiment to discover and utilize the contents) which opened up an entirely new and (for the Soviets) very accessible new world connected vitally (part and parcel) with the current Earth of the time, and the USA had the Dinosaur Bone, the Galactic Warp-Vessel, the Bomb and an incredibly aggressive and.. quite frankly disgusting space program policy from its inception, making the Stewing of Lorensis (using the entire race, verily melting them down, as bullion in an occult-techno ritual to charter a metal spaceship with 3 homo lorensis on board and the Arc of the Covenant strapped to it across the stars in order to solve the problem of these Dracula-like Powers that came to make life so devastatingly harsh and vile to be living. Enter The Eritran.

Pimp My Crib

R-Dog's Castle (Remodeled childhood / family home) was like a Victorian Tower Farm House. He grew Drugs outside in garden plots , had a set of 4 ovens and 1 supernal (a spike you could impale a living thing on and it's essence would be turned to liquid and flow through a sieve below in order to instantly allow for someone to sacrifice alive and allocate a soul-substance to a particular location without the need for operator), a graveyard, a treasure trove (just looked like a flat sandy area surrounding the Drug Fields) a food gardens, an empty field, a forest, fencing, a shooting range and some walls.

The Ovens were organized in a square formation, opening towards eachothers fronts. The placement of the ovens was extremely important for Martian stuff.

Hitler devised a scheme after he found out what JR planned to do since he and his associates controlled 99% of Earth's surface-connected resources and the US government was the primary puppet of the execution of the plan. This is 1 piece of the puzzle of what took his ardent, ferverous disdain for the social structure that he blamed the Jews for keeping in place – and for the Jews themselves.

“So Apparently” a GalactaMail

“ So apparently Hitler’s surgeon and best friend who had the love of his life (a Jewish princess) with him as they traveled all over infinity seeking solutions to problems. Being the personal confidant on trips back and forth to Mars to perform surgeries and to fight in the war and to even do surgery on each other with refined mixture of chemical and physical techniques to bring people back to life and remember other lives or things that have been forgotten and eventually Hitler demanding Sarah, his wife on which he’d lived eternity with in a seeming moment; be turned into a cupcake in an oven and the surgeon being forced to eat the cupcake. Hitler turned evil after doing too much of a space drug and these certain lenses that protected Earth from the karmic impact of the immensity of the rest of the Universe and the terrifyingly inhumane experiments and acts which occurred around the time and during the Second World War being broken; but with the exogen crisis affecting us so badly that we could no longer travel, no more twisted holes, no more anything- we knew we were stuck under Hitler's strongest suspicions in new paranoid that would spout by the second. The ovens turned hot, the Lenses broke completely, and, as they managed to get ahold of Eva and replace her heart with a Gloxtovian Mesh-Kit, he went completely insane and even came up with his own experimental tortures with which to treat each Jew. Remember, ever part of the buffalo – the individuals suffered worse than any in known history. It was not, ghetto to bullet to oven. It was a horrific process of step-by-step, almost molecule by molecule, torture. Those undergoing processes were fine before the Lenses broke; although the ghettos were harsh, the time in the simulators was extremely gratifying and positive. After seeing and experiencing what they had, many understood why. If only the World knew. While the United States was creating Empire and the Initiative and Colonies all over the Galaxy in order to fund and fight the war, the Nazis simply used their own and acquired populations to gain their potency.

One of the best examples of the effects of the Broken Lenses was Zanzibar: a drunken long-weekend that began in Switzerland with Hitler and his 8 closest confidants and friends wherein they in a nutshell did 5000g of Concentrated Methamphetamines in small tablets with 2500g left for the weekend, Then* they started drinking Heineken and smoking cigarettes; designing the greatest melee fighter the Universe had ever seen. They used Tablets garnered from off-planet in order to instill in the DNA the sufferings and might and power for thousands of civilizations – when the lenses broke, each affected Zanzibarian experienced every single micron of pain and suffering that each tablet entailed. They weren't supposed to hurt that way. Sarah (the Jewish Princess) did not approve from the outset, and hated when her husband went away with 'Hitler and the Gang'; no matter what, every time, the ramifications and difficulties that appeared to be caused by what we were trying to accomplish would make our lives so much more stressful and awry that it would often become more and more difficult to breathe, let alone focus on saving the world, the galaxy, and possibly all Creation. No matter (pretty much – meaning except for The One) how “spiritual” or spiritually advanced/evolved a being is, they are always susceptible to error and going awry.

In one of his most transferrable and potent incarnations, one R could go from Mars back to experiencing in the moment, R-Dog was the member of a Dinosaur Gang with her Lead Dino being a Baby Bop-Lookalike, Baby Beboop, that was the hardest known worker on the scene. They designed and cooked different types of crack to vitally heal, or completely dominate virtually every sentient species, and created an empire to challenge the Galactic Federation and US Colonization around the Stars (of which the US is very much a part). We all failed terribly on Orion. The Belt of Orion. Whole thing. The light-speed changes have just not met our eyes on Earth yet. The belt may have been stolen, and given to a friend. Still, we Hope. See, ‘crack cocaine’ is just two words; moreover it is a concept more than a substance. You examine the vertebral column or nervous system or the ‘connections within’ of a sentient species, and you use components, reagents, and cooking processes from both the creature’s world and beyond to create a type of experience that will allow you to pretty much either heal and help or dominate and enslave that species. R-Dog first created it in his Mars NE Hood Lab in 1983, gave a single hit to JR, to show him the effects. He then had him sign the contract transferring his share (99%) of Earth’s wealth and resources to Mars, also offering him the beautiful Martia that R-Dog brought into the LA Hotel in order to tempt JR and tip the scales with (who was over the moon about the deal- an unobtainable, absolutely beautiful and powerful woman from another planet, an ounce of pure crack cocaine (which one little piece the size of a sand granule had completely healed a lifetime of insurmountable woe within him before his very eyes- and his knee, in an instant- he knew this was the actual panacea for the human race’s blood-level sickness and as far as he could see, worth everything he had control over and more.) Pure crack of the type experienced at this point in history basically healed every wound, physical or psychic, endowing you with extreme new powers for your type of creature (imagine a schizophrenic or medium-seer instantly granted complete coherence, using their gifts for things like telepathy, astral travel, creativity, etc. and contributing massively to the human corpus). A true panacea. A piece the size of a grain of salt was all one needed before the Degradation Shield was added to Earth and pure crack was not only no longer allowed but simply impossible to bring or craft planetside on Earth. R offered Rothschild a slab the size of a stick of butter and the Martia for, basically, his level of Earth's wealth. In less than an hour, JR had signed the contracts, knowing he could live forever and have this woman who had completely enchanted him. After signing, R grabs the contracts, and slaps Rothschild. The Martia screams, turning into Rothschild's mother, screaming with pain and melting into a puddle while crying and telling him he's a little goon and will never be as good as his dead brother, things along those lines, to reinstill every bit of sickness and add more madness to it. R-Dog leaves with the Contract and Proof as JR receives his anti-therapy. He turns the corner and disappears, while Rothschild is still completely shell-shocked by this episode of miraculous healing, the instant loss of his Bride, watching this awful scene of his Mother in a very prestigious type of place for the Beast of Burden and others, and the return of all his previous neurosis occurring so quickly. Rothschild comes to. R is now offplanet. He inspects the tray where the ounce of pure crack was left. The world is thereby introduced to a new substance! A new, tasty liquid form butter substitute. Rothschild is furious. Mars and Earth are at War. Marzipan is born.

Once R found out that the US had the Vessel and the Bone, he knew it was only a matter of time before Mars was attacked. Sure, the contract was somewhat arguable due to JR not getting either of the things he intended – but he actually got both. He just did not know the tricks of the wider galaxy at that point so well. See crack is a concept more than anything. Many of the wider Galaxies and Planets would see this type of contract as binding. It threw a wrench in every plan he had. You may not believe a signature is that important- you may know or experienced yourself how detrimental signing the wrong thing can be. There is a type of universal law in sentient's using ink to make their own mark. The original saying was "crack heals or crack kills: it all depends on you" all over the galaxy. The Reagan administration, so often is political propaganda containing a grain of truth and a bucket of lies, to "Crack kills" in order to cast fear and misunderstanding into the population about such a vital, important issue. Crack was exploited by everyone, especially R-Dog (if you believe he was innocent of crimes for being so damaged and demoralized by the things he had experienced, he healed most of that with his own supply, at great risk. But he, similar to Hitler, became so involved in these events that he, too, lost his way for a good while, up to his Death and aiming his soul at the “Edge of the Worlds” aka the farthest point he could possibly project his soul from the tools in his Oven Area

The Book of Truth was seen as a marble white tome in a light, pale blue shade that was connected to the Orphanage / Slaughterhouse (Think Rainbow 6 Original Training Map). mentioned in relation to Tellarkand 7.

After the initiation of the Gravitron Array and Earth forcing Mars to change its order from the Sun, after the destruction of the River Dan, weird events start happening on Mars. Entire towns (ex. 'New Mars City's) begin just showing up, inhabited by spies from Earth, real humans, Martians and androids). 'Popping the Trunk' is the moment R-Dog hit a switch on a parked Mars vehicle, launching 7 nuclear smartbombs (on Mars, they basically converted everything, living or material, to Life Force) into the 7 hearts of New Mars City, turned a corner, and vanished.

Thank you for reading this,

Love,

Jamie Whaley

Johnnywalden777@gmail.com

Jesus is God and All Law will be followed whether you argue about it or not. Love.